

BOLDLY INNOVATING

Our 2017 claims statistics

THIS IS FOR FINANCIAL ADVISER USE ONLY AND SHOULDN'T BE RELIED UPON BY ANY OTHER PERSON.

We're making our claims service even better for your clients.

And as you can see from these claim statistics, our determination continues to pay off.

But more than that, we're focused on your clients as individuals. We believe people going through a challenging time need to have a positive, reassuring claims experience.

From a single point of contact so they only have to give information once, to access to a dedicated nurse to provide additional support beyond a payout. From fast track claims to save them worrying about paperwork, to Free Cover to make sure they're protected even before they pay a penny in premiums. We're always looking for new ways to do things differently.

'I am so impressed with the whole service that you are providing for myself, my wife and my son. It is very rare these days for someone to get in touch and just ask 'how are you?'. You provide a great service and are all so caring, kind and concerned.'

Free Cover to make sure your clients are protected straightaway.

Free Cover claims can pay out before a penny in premiums has been paid by the customer. This can be useful, for example, if a customer is waiting for their plan to start while their mortgage is completing.

Fast track claims to keep things moving.

If your client needs to make a claim, we can help make everything as quick and easy as possible with our fast track claims process for claims under £10,000. It means your client doesn't need to fill out a form as everything is done over the phone. Then, if everything is in order, we can pay the claim the very next day.

Tailored support for your clients' wellbeing.

Helping Hand provides your clients with a tailored and personal support service. It's available to them and their family (partner and children) from the day their plan starts, not just at claim - and they don't need to pay anything extra to use it. Your client will be offered access to a dedicated nurse who'll provide ongoing emotional and practical support. Their nurse can also arrange additional services, such as bereavement counselling or a second medical opinion, if they think that's what your client needs.

TERM LIFE COVER

Because Term Life Cover can be taken as a lump sum or an income, your clients can choose how they would like a successful claim to be paid. Perhaps a lump sum to pay off immediate debts would help, or they may prefer a regular income to help their families with ongoing expenses. They may even decide that a combination of the two would work best. Whatever they decide, Life Cover can support their loved ones if they die or become terminally ill.

CRITICAL ILLNESS COVER CLAIMS

We're committed to offering your clients cover where it matters—that's why we focus on having some of the best definitions for the main reasons for a claim—cancer, heart attack, stroke, children's critical illness and multiple sclerosis. And because we know your clients also need cover that's clear and easy to understand, we aim to cover over 60 early forms of cancer diagnoses—within just nine definitions. On top of this, we're also dedicated to supporting your clients and their families through whatever they may face as a result of a claim. Our comprehensive support service, Helping Hand, helps them when they're going through testing times in their lives such as facing a cancer diagnosis or surviving a heart attack.

CHILDREN'S CRITICAL ILLNESS COVER

No one likes to think of their child becoming critically ill, but it's an unfortunate reality. When your clients take out our Critical Illness Cover, they can choose to include either Standard or Enhanced Children's Critical Illness Cover. We pay out 50% of the cover amount on successful claim, up to a maximum of £50,000. And we're proud to say our definition includes any legally adopted children and financially dependent children up to the age of 21 (whether born before or after the starting date of the plan). The money from a Children's Critical Illness claim could help provide the best care and support for a sick child and allow their parents the financial freedom to change their working patterns in order to look after them.

INCOME PROTECTION CLAIMS

Bills will still need to be paid if your client is unable to work due to long-term ill-health or injury. Income Protection can offer your clients an income if they're too ill to work, giving them one less thing to worry about and the ability to focus on getting back to work.

Like last year, the ABI (Association of British Insurers) is asking members to report income protection figures based on new claims paid or declined during the previous year. Prior to 2017 the ABI methodology which we adhered to was to report decisions on new income protection claims plus income protection claims that continued to be paid (for example, a claim which was admitted in 2016 and continued to be paid during part or all of 2017). The new method has the effect of reducing the numbers reported because many income protection claims continue to be paid over long periods of time. This can be months and sometimes years.

The figures below show our Income Protection claims paid on both the old and new reporting methods.

FREE COVER

If your clients apply for a plan with us and it doesn't start right away, we want to make sure they're protected in the meantime. That's why we offer Free Cover. It's temporary cover, the same type as your client has applied for and it starts as soon as we receive their completed application form. So, they're covered even before their plan has officially started.

And our Free Cover really does make a difference. We paid out over £700,000 in claims in 2017 to customers who sadly had to make a claim before their plans had started.

The shortest length of time between us receiving the application and the clients making a claim was 12 days.

HELPING HAND

During difficult times in your client's life—like when they're seriously ill—they might not know where to turn to for help. Dealing with the unknown can be daunting. Our Helping Hand service gives your clients access to a dedicated nurse who'll provide tailored and personal support whenever they need it—for as long as they need it.

Whether they need someone to talk to or access to specialist services, your client will always speak to the same person who can provide a personal support plan which complements NHS services and gives continuity of care.

Helping Hand is available from the day your client's plan starts. They won't need to pay anything extra to use it and their family (partner and children) can use it too.

Life Cover

Losing a loved one is a devastating and very personal experience. Some people struggle to cope with their grief, which may lead to problems later on. Helping Hand offers long-term support from access to a dedicated nurse to professional bereavement counselling for your client's family if they need it. This trained expert can help them explore their feelings and come to terms with their loss.

During this emotional time, there will also be practical issues that need taken care of. To help with this, we'll give your family access to an independent legal helpline to discuss any questions they may have around wills or probate.

'I didn't know that the insurance offered this service, we are in such a sad place, what you are providing is terrific.'

Life Cover claim, August 2016

Critical Illness Cover

Being diagnosed with a critical illness such as cancer, or suffering from a heart attack or stroke, is traumatic and can impact everyone differently. Whether it's finding ways to cope with facing an illness or support on the road to recovery, Helping Hand offers access to long-term support from a dedicated nurse.

Jenny's story

When Jenny was diagnosed with cancer, she faced a long road to recovery. She was anxious about her significant surgery and treatment, and was stressed about being off work for a long period. Helping Hand offered Jenny a dedicated nurse who gave advice on the side effects of her treatment, therapies to improve her strength and information on her right to time off work. Jenny was reassured that when she needed to talk, there was someone there to listen and that she had a constant source of support for as long as she needed it.

‘Words cannot express how much I appreciate the support I’ve had and it’s so reassuring to know that there’s someone out there to help and support you.’

Cancer claim, March 2018

Income Protection

If your client has been off work because of an illness or injury it can be hard to get back into the swing of things. Helping Hand can help them recover and get back to work. Helping Hand offers access to long-term support from a dedicated nurse who can help to manage stress and depression, suggest counselling, physiotherapy and complementary therapies.

Adam's story

When Adam had a stroke at just 45 he was left with ongoing problems with his speech, attention span and decision making. He also suffered from poor memory and fatigue. These symptoms made him anxious about returning to work, and he was unsure if he would be able to function and communicate with colleagues and customers. His dedicated nurse was able to give him coping strategies to help with his symptoms and practical ways to help with his memory problems – such as using electronic organisational tools. She was also able to put him in touch with a local charity that organised extra speech therapy after being discharged from the NHS. And, when he was ready to return to work she gave Adam literature for his employer so they understood his condition, and encouraged him to make a phased return to work so it didn't set his recovery back.

‘Nic really trusts you and values your ongoing support.’

Income Protection claim, July 2016

Helping Hand is a package of support services, provided by third parties that aren't regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority. These services aren't part of our terms and conditions, so can be amended or withdrawn at any time.

PAYING CLAIMS

We know that losing a loved one is a traumatic experience and how well a bereavement claim is handled is a key ‘moment of truth’ for both you as an adviser, and for a customer making a claim.

The Funeral Payment Pledge

On 24 March this year, we signed up to this pledge that agrees to pay a proportion of the sum assured, up to £10,000, to pay for the costs of the person covered’s funeral where full payment of a claim was delayed due to uncertainty over where the policy proceeds should be paid. Payment of death claims can often be delayed by the time taken to obtain the appropriate grant of representation (known as confirmation in Scotland), which enables the personal representatives to administer the deceased’s estate. This delay can arise where a plan hasn’t been assigned or written in trust. In complex cases, the process can take many months or even years.

The Funeral Payment Pledge allows us to act on a promise to support our customers when they need us most.

Fast track

A key cause of delay within our claims process previously was that for all bereavement claims, we needed representatives to complete a form and return documentation, regardless of the claim’s value. We recognised that this wasn’t always necessary and so we now only ask for paperwork in certain circumstances. We’re now able to settle many bereavement claims within days where it would have previously perhaps taken weeks for the beneficiaries to receive their payout.

In 2017 we were able to pay 85% of claims in less than three days

29,460 loved ones helped, quickly

Tele-claims and E-signatures

We’re always looking for ways to make the claims experience better for your customers. This can mean making the process simpler, more convenient and personal to them as an individual. Tele-claims allows a customer to provide initial details about their claim over the telephone at a time they choose, saving them the task of waiting for, completing, then returning the claim form to us.

E-signatures allows for claims to be processed quicker by sending a secure access email to your customers request their permission to receive medical information from their doctor.

We’re making both initiatives available to more customers in 2018, which could reduce delays for your clients if they make a claim, and help us to pay more claims, more quickly.

HOW YOU CAN HELP US TO PAY MORE CLAIMS

We know that your clients have taken out cover to give both themselves and their families peace of mind. Our aim is to pay valid claims as promptly and efficiently as possible and we always assess claims in a fair and consistent way. However, there may be occasions when claims are not paid because of misrepresentation or if a claim doesn't meet our plan definition.

You can help us to reduce the number of claims we have to reject by continuing to emphasise to your clients the importance of answering our application form questions fully and accurately.

And for income protection review your clients' cover regularly to make sure the level of cover and the deferred period remains appropriate for them.

- Make sure that all questions on the application form are answered honestly and in full. It's far better to give more information than not enough.
- Your clients may wish to speak to their doctor before making the application if they are unsure about any details.
- For income protection, review your clients' cover to ensure it remains appropriate.

“I was amazed that you could deal with the issue over the phone without seeing the actual policy. That makes life so less stressful when an executor is trying to sort out the affairs of the deceased... It is wonderful to find a large company who have such systems in place. Not only was the claim dealt with efficiently, but today I also received your cheque which I find incredible service.”
