Pension Matters

Keeping employers up to date

It's time for the March issue of our 2019 employer newsletter, Pension Matters, which we'll send to employers on 25 March 2019.

Pension Matters is designed to work in tandem with you, providing support to employers and their employees on key pension topics.

It provides updates on recent developments, both from Royal London and the market in general. It also provides communications that employers can share with their employees. All of which are aimed at getting employees more engaged in their pension and ultimately seeking advice.

The March issue

In this issue we focus on:

Recent Developments

Share the news

If someone else would like to receive this newsletter, just let us know.

NOMINATE SOMEONE

- Improvements we've made to help employers submit contributions online
- Re-enrolment and the importance of keeping participation rates high

Employee Communications

- Support for employees who may be considering making single contributions
- A podcast and support for employees on recent market volatility

Our adviser commitments

Rest assured we continue to stand by our adviser commitments. Pension Matters is a way for us to share insight about everything we're doing to secure a better future for your client's workforce.

If you have any questions about the newsletter, get in touch with your usual Royal London contact.

Kind regards
