

Building value through a menu plan

There's never been a more important time to show the value and quality of your advice, when it comes to your client's protection needs.

We believe the menu plan is the cornerstone of holistic protection advice and the foundation of valuable client relationships. By moving the conversation away from individual covers, you can offer your clients a solution for all of their protection needs. Everything is in one place, so it's easy to see what they're covered for. All with just one application, one direct debit and the menu multi-plan discount.

Building value for your clients

Let's look at how you can build value for your clients through a menu plan. The example below, shows how you can help a family find a suitable solution by mixing and matching different types of cover. Combining them in this way will provide a range of benefits and options to help protect them against the financial consequences of a number of potential risks.

Building value for your business

As a mutual provider, we're committed to the intermediary market. And a menu plan can provide solutions to key areas of an adviser's business when it comes to protecting your clients and their families. Let's look at the four Rs within your business and where we feel we can help and support you:

Risk

Bridging the gap between affordability and responsibility. Allowing you to recommend solutions that provides some level of protection to suit your individual customers' needs and provide budgets. Managing risk when it's needed most with multiple opportunities to claim.

Revenue

By mixing and matching covers, you can usually create a solution that'll fit your client's circumstances. By tailoring a package in this way, you can offer more solutions to more of your customers - creating more income for your business.

Retention

Building a bespoke solution makes your advice harder to copy. And a plan that has the flexibility to change with your client's needs helps to create future advice opportunities.

Reputation

It's when, unfortunately, that there's a need for a client to make a claim, that the value of your advice pays off. Having cover that provides valuable financial assistance alongside the practical support of Helping Hand can only enhance your reputation as an adviser.

Helping Hand is a package of support services, provided by third parties that aren't regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority. These services aren't part of our terms and conditions, so can be amended or withdrawn at any time.
