We're changing some of the adviser remuneration options on your workplace pension scheme

Dear Sir/Madam

Scheme name(s):	<Scheme name(s)>
Scheme number(s):	<Scheme number(s)>
Scheme type(s):	<Scheme type(s)>

With the support of our Independent Governance Committee (IGC), we've been reviewing some of our existing schemes to make sure we're continuing to offer value for money. As part of this review, we're writing to you about your scheme.

What's changing?

When you set your scheme up, you and your financial adviser agreed that we'd pay them a remuneration payment when an existing member made an ad hoc increase to their plan or if someone new joined your scheme*. From 1 December 2021, your financial adviser will no longer receive these remuneration payments.

* If your scheme is a Talisman Group Personal Pension, you'll already know this scheme is closed to new joiners, so you'll only be affected by the changes we're making to ad-hoc increases.

By making these changes to the remuneration options, we'll be able to offer the scheme members lower charges.

What do I need to do?

You don't need to do anything. We've already written to your adviser about these planned changes so they may get in touch with you. We've also added some Q&As online at employer.royallondon.com/igc-new-charges

If you have any other questions or want to find out more, you can speak to our dedicated servicing team on 0345 300 1805.

Yours sincerely
